

ABSTRACT

An apparatus, a method and a computer program product for use when converting message information from a first format to a second format in packet 5 transmitting systems.